U/V COLLECTION

The U/V collection – whose title is a visual reference to each light's modular composition of U and V shapes – takes paper pulp as its medium to create lighting for the home that is sculptural and balanced, yet playfully imperfect.

We chose to work with recycled paper pulp because it's environmentally friendly, and has a natural, tactile finish, similar to plaster or ceramic. For each of our joyful yet sustainable lamps, the sculptural, nuanced silhouette is painted by hand in our London studio.

Parasol

A statuesque table lamp echoing the expressive forms of Art Nouveau design. Its weighted base and tall stem makes the Parasol an ideal reading lamp.

Pavilion

The versatile Pavilion brings a shaded, atmospheric glow to any part of the home. The light's low, rounded form is loosely based on the shapes of Art Nouveau lighting design.

Satellite Uplighter

The other-worldly mood of 1970s ‘space age’ design is evoked in this statement light’s curving sculptural form. An impactful hybrid art piece that can be adapted to all surfaces (even the floor).

Hourglass Uplighter

One of our most sculptural designs, the Hourglass table lamp can also be placed on the floor to subtly transform a space. Its palindrome shape creates an uplight that is diffused by deep shade.

Diabolo Uplighter

Our Diabolo table lamp was inspired by the bold, symmetrical lights of the 1950s. Our most compact design, this uplighter works especially well on bookcases, shelves and mantels.

Bell Pendant

The Bell pendant's deep sides make the painted finish more prominent while casting a softly shaded glow. Its understated graphic form works beautifully in pairs or multiples above kitchen islands or dining tables.

Totem

Our Totem floor lamp looks to the work of Brancusi, and his play with the role of the base. Its stacked, repeated shapes create a dramatic, column-like form that also functions as an art piece.

Our second collection is a series of iterations of the classic dome light. Synonymous with both the modern and the celestial in art and design history, the dome shape is the starting point for this collection's play with proportion, colour, pattern, and our first patinated metalware alongside our sustainable, textured paper pulp.

Volta looks at the enduring status of the dome shape, revisiting the work of designers such as Vico Magistretti, who took an almost obsessive interest in the grace and simplicity of the hemisphere.

‘Look at usual things with unusual eyes.’

— VICO MAGISTRETTI

Canopy

For the Canopy, we revisited the grace and simplicity of iconic works by designers who returned to the dome repeatedly, such as Paavo Tynell and Vico Magistretti.

The Canopy floor lamp is striking in its unusual proportions. A very narrow, painted steel base and fine central stem opens up to a wide dome shade at 50cm diameter, with the pattern or colour carried through both elements.
